

NOT SETTLED.

Montgomery City has been wanting the county seat of Montgomery county for a long time. Several elections were held at which the removal of the county seat from Danville to Montgomery was voted on and decided in the negative, till the last November election at which the proposition carried. Danville fought against the removal on legal grounds and the matter was referred to the supreme court. Pending the decision of the highest tribunal of the state, Montgomery, being confident of winning the case, sent twenty wagons to Danville and removed the county records to Montgomery. This was done after a writ of prohibition had been asked for. March 26, the supreme court decision made the writ perpetual, hence Montgomery will have to send the records back to Danville. This circumstance reminds one of the old adage, "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and lip."

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers misread more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth Co., Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me, he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. 50 cent bottles for sale by W. C. Gaston."

CHARLES GLEASON of Kansas City robbed his father of $1,500 and went to St. Louis, where he got on a drunk in a disreputable resort. He was arrested and sent to the Four Courts prison. Here the father found him and all the money except $60 which the son had squandered in "riotous living." The father gave him $20 and told him to leave home and try to make his way in the world without parental assistance.

Honesty is just as great a virtue in pants as in a man. The BUCKSKIN BREECHES are the most faithful honest goods that we know how to make. Honest seams, honest buttons, honest wear. We've gotten all the goodness we know how to squeeze in, in these breeches. We go still further, and refund your money if they are not just as represented.

A new game has made its appearance in Joplin, says the News, and is now the rage. It is called "The Cheese Social," and is played as follows: Six young ladies stand in a row and one of them bites a piece of Limberger cheese and the young men pay ten cents each to guess who bit it. The successful guesser kisses the other five girls while the unsuccessful kiss the one who bit the cheese.

SPREADING of the business outlook at this time, the Chicago Times-Herald states the following facts: The reports of the commercial agencies for the past week indicate a distinct improvement in general business. Confidence is returning among investors and there is a growing desire to invest money, instead of hiding it away in safety vaults, where it does no one any good. One indication of this feeling is in the increased inquiry for the junior issues of the securities of the better class of railroads. Another is the widening of speculation, and some appreciation in the value of shares traded in Wall street. The rise in the price of cotton is another manifestation of healthy improvement, and the advance in wheat, though not maintained, shows how rapid the general advance will be when confidence is fully restored. It is certainly evident on many sides that the worst of the hard times is over, and though confidence is a plant of slow growth, it is showing evidence of vitality. It is entirely evident that the whole tone of the business situation is improved. There remains nothing to menace business interest. A long respite from political or financial agitation is in view. The prolonged stoppage of production has resulted in the exhaustion of stocks of goods on hand and there is every reason to anticipate now a sharp and full recovery in all lines of trade.

A SHELBY lady suspected that her husband was in the habit of kissing Katie, the cook, and resolved to detect him in the act. After watching him a few days she heard him come home one evening and quietly pass into the kitchen; now Kate was out that evening and the kitchen was dark. Burning with jealousy the injured wife took a few matches in her hand and hastily placing a shawl over her head as Kate sometimes did, entered the kitchen by a back door, and was almost immediately seized and embraced in a most ardent manner. With her heart almost bursting with rage and jealousy the injured wife prepared to administer a terrible rebuke to her faithless spouse. Tearing herself from his fond embrace she struck a match and stood face to face with the hired man.—Shelby Torchlight

SHERIFF UMSTADT and posse of Monroe county had a hard job on their hands last week when they undertook to arrest Thomas Moutaw, a maniac who was in a house and armed with a shot-gun and corn-knife. Moutaw came out of the house and fired on the officers, hitting several of them. The posse ran towards him, when he retreated into the house and got a corn-knife and came out, cutting the rim off the hat of one of the posse and striking at the sheriff with the corn-knife. The sheriff in backing away fell and the maniac jumped on him and struck at his head several times with the knife, striking in the ground near his head. The sheriff shot him and one of the posse struck him with a club, rendering him unconscious. He was then tied, taken to Paris and placed in jail.
